

Subject: Re: Landis-II web site migration (to Google sites)
From: James Domingo <jdomingo@green-code.com>
Date: 9/1/13, 10:09 AM
To: Robert Scheller <rmschell@pdx.edu>

Hi Rob.

I can't access the new site (the second link below). It asks for a Portland State University sign-in, so it seems the site is not accessible to the general public.

I don't think the instructions in the first link apply to this situation. They would probably work if you were mapping the "landis-ii.org" domain to another domain at PSU (say for example, the subdomain "landis-ii.pdx.edu"). But CNAME records don't work with URLs like the link to the new site.

I think the issue is that the new site is part of the Google Apps account for Portland State. I suspect that L-II needs its own Google Apps account. Fortunately, Google has a special program for non-profits:

<https://www.google.com/nonprofits/>

This may be a situation where the new L-II Foundation comes in handy 😊

Jimm

--

James Domingo
Green Code LLC

On 8/26/13, Robert Scheller wrote:

Jimm,

Thanks for getting back to me.

I may be able to pull it off myself although I welcome your input:

http://support.godaddy.com/help/article/6031/mapping-your-domain-name-to-work-with-google-sites?pc_split_value=4

It sounds straight-forward; is it?

Here's the new site:

<https://sites.google.com/a/pdx.edu/landis-ii/>